

The zenith company produce jaw crusher, impact crusher, cone crusher, stone crusher, hammer crusher, Raymond mill and grinding mill and so on! With the rapid global economic development, the social demand for various metals, non-metallic, minerals, cements, building materials, and production scale are enlarging day by day, so the needs for grinded materials increase rapidly thus boosting the crushing machinery demand. Since the beginning of reform and opening up, China's economy has been developing steadily with an unprecedented speed, especially in recent years. To promote the steady growth of the national economy, expanding domestic demand, the state has increased infrastructure investment, speeded up the development of the western region. There is a great demand for grinded materials in the construction, building materials, transportation, metallurgy, mining industries. Thanks to the rapid economic development, there is a bright and broad space for enterprises that produce crushing machines.

Under such circumstances, we make full use of the good opportunity and try our best to have a great progress in technical transformation, innovation, improving the quality of products, and continuously expanding the domestic and oversea market.

Through years of development, our products have gained a favorable market all over the world. As the leading company in crushing & milling field, we have developed series of newly-designed crushers by absorbing advanced scientific technology & processing experience from abroad and our experts' continuous research, it proved that our crushing products enjoyed a good market both in domestic and overseas for its high quality & easy maintenance.

Shanghai Zenith Company has been one of the largest crusher manufacturers in China. For crushing industry plays an important role in our rapid-develop world, we will never stop our footsteps in pursuing better quality and better service to make a greater contribution to the people in the world.

Shanghai zenith company offers various crushers, such like jaw crusher, impact crusher, cone crusher, vertical impact crusher. When you need complete superior crushing solutions designed to handle reinforced concrete and asphalt to produce clean, saleable aggregates, count on shanghai zenith company as your single source supplier for equipment, applications expertise and product support.

Shanghai zenith delivers crushing systems that produce high quality cubical aggregates. No one works harder than shanghai zenith to provide more value, reliability and reduced operating costs for your material processing needs.

Whether you require jaw or impact, cone crusher , shanghai zenith engineers can provide the optimum plant design to achieve maximum production and efficiency for your operation.

When you need a truly massive crusher unmatched in reliability, high capacity, and high productivity, you need zenith. Zenith' s range of large model crushers suits your particular heavy duty, high volume crushing application. Everything about it tells you this machine was built for demanding production, strength and a lifetime of dependability.

Our service and support is the best. Before, during and after the sale, you can count on the experts at Shanghai Zenith Minerals to provide the best service and support in the world - all over the world. You can count on us to help you make sure it is the right equipment for your precise needs.

In the design stage, we look at variables such as ore characteristics and properties, physical space limitations, size of ore body – even your financial situation – just to name a few. Once you make your purchase, you will be linked to the after-sale department. Shanghai Zenith will give you immediate access to the right parts, in stock, and delivered promptly. If you have questions, a trained service analyst is always standing by – over the phone or in person – ready to analyze your needs and recommend a complete, long-term, cost-effective solution.

We even offer training courses to help you get the most out of your system. Over the years, thousands of crushing professionals like you have benefited from the wide variety of seminars we offer. Do you have special training needs? Tell us – and we will create a unique training session just for your company.

Shanghai Zenith series VSI crushers, a world of difference in technology, quality, performance, reliability, and sales support. To find out more, contact your nearest Shanghai Zenith Minerals office.